

Excerpted from The Exonian, the student newspaper of Phillips Exeter Academy...

Steve Taubman whirled through the campus of Phillips Exeter Academy last week and the students are still buzzing with excitement!

Steve was able to immediately engage the audience and as a result the show started on a high note and the level of energy was maintained throughout the entire event. The students are already requesting a return engagement for next year!

In addition to being charismatic and energetic on stage, Steve was highly organized and fully invested in making his show a success from the moment the contract was signed.

He supplied ample promotional materials, along with suggestions on how to maximize their effectiveness. On the day of the show, he arrived early, performed magic in the dining hall to engage the students, hung an eye-catching banner to promote his show, and worked collaboratively with the Academy's audio-visual staff to create the right environment on stage for his show.

After the show, he stayed to talk to individual students who had questions about magic and hypnosis, and most importantly, to ensure that the students who had been hypnotized were okay and understood their experience.